

RASMUSSEN COLLEGE PLEDEGE OF PUBLIC ACCOUNTABILITY

As an institution of higher learning with a history of success dating back to 1900, Rasmussen College understands the level of commitment required to earn a degree. To help you make an informed decision about where to earn your degree, we pledge to provide our prospective, current, and former students with relevant, accurate, and straightforward information, including:

- Degree/program information: Tuition costs, course requirements, graduation rates, and median student debt
- Rasmussen College accreditation and degree/programmatic accreditation
- Employment statistics for recent graduates
- Campus contact information
- Leadership information: names and titles of our Board of Directors, campus directors, and school directors for our six schools of study
- Faculty information: names and qualifications
  - School of Business
  - School of Nursing
  - School of Justice Studies
  - School of Technology and Design
  - School of Health Sciences
  - School of Education

To further support our students as they work to achieve their academic and career goals, we also pledge to:

- Review each incoming student's previous college transcripts with an eye toward maximizing their credit transfer by applying our extensive and seamless transfer policies
- Explain to each student our Credential Ladder program, and how they can earn credentials that will qualify them to apply for career-related certification in their area of study
- Work one-on-one with all students who wish to have help completing their financial aid application and reviewing their financial aid award letter
